Santa's high school helpers

Stack upon stack of shoeboxes, every one of them stuffed to the bursting point with toys, toiletries and school supplies, were readied for shipment overseas by this generous group of Santa's helpers from F. G. Miller High School. Operation Christmas Child received over 60 boxes from FGM staff and students.

Extravaganza plans coming together

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Plans for the Friday, Nov. 30 Christmas Extravaganza are took another step toward completion at the second meeting of the organizing committee last week.

The event will follow much the same format as recent years, with the enchanting Winter Wonderland parade followed by horse-drawn wagon rides, stage entertainment, blazing bonfires and photos with Santa Claus in the downtown area, combined with late shopping at most local stores and a huge craft and book sale at F. G. Miller High School.

Proposed changes to the parade route, which would have excluded the loop to the west past Parkview Extended Care, Buckingham House, Heritage Lodge and Fort George Manor, were shelved after the committee heard a presentation from Heritage Lodge activity coordinator Heather Paquette. Paquette canvassed the residents there and determined that over 30 of them look forward to watching the parade each year and hoped that it would once again pass their location. Extravaganza co-chair Sandy Smith had also received feedback from Parkview, which noted that some of the residents there enjoy watching the parade go by. The parade will follow the same route as the Canada Day parade.

Other concerns regarding the parade were also discussed. The committee is hoping that motorists will comply with the request to clear Main Street between Railway Ave. and 51 Ave of vehicles from 4:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., making it safer and more convenient to watch the parade and for the wagon rides.

F. G. Miller students pause to remember

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Students and staff of F. G. Miller Junior/Senior High School paused last Thursday to take time to remember the contributions made by those who fought for Canada in the two World Wars, Korea and in peacekeeping missions around the world.

Students bearing lighted candles marched solemnly into the darkened gymnasium as mistress of ceremonies Taylor Jenner told the assembly that each one of the 14 candles represented 9,964 casualties of those "who fell victims to the harsh realities of war. Many of these brave men and women left school, university and secure jobs to serve our country and ultimately grant us the freedom each and every one of us experiences today."

Following the singing of O Canada, led by Brittany Morrison, master of ceremonies William Fenton joined Jenner to outline the history of the Royal Canadian Legion, which was founded as the Dominion Veterans Alliance in 1925, becoming the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Services League the following year. The Legion provided canteens, entertainment and reading material abroad and at home during World War II, and correspondence courses to help the forces on their return home. Today, the Legion is a non-profit, self-sustaining organization with approximately 1,600 branches in Canada, the US, the Netherlands and Germany.

Jenner and Fenton offered a warm welcome to Roger Freeman and Del Smith, representing the St. Paul/Elk Point Legion, who attended the ceremony.

A variety of students presented poems, readings and a variety of statistics regarding the conflicts of the past. The traditional Remembrance Day poem, In Flanders Fields, was followed by its contemporary reply and a poem entitled, "Please Wear a Poppy."

The long-ago story of the World War I Battle of Vimy Ridge was followed by students Brett Lindquist, Sherida Germain and Katelyn Brooks, who told about the military service of their grandfather, great-grandfather and great, great grandfather respectively.

Two students offered a musical interlude, followed by Tanner Shankowski with the Act of Remembrance. Teacher Randall Krys played The Last Post and Reveille, with the students pausing for the traditional moment of silence in between.

Brittany Morrison closed the solemn morning of remembrance with a beautiful rendition of Amazing Grace as students filed silently from the gymnasium.

Mementos of war decorated the stage at F. G. Miller.

Here's what Albertans had to say about crime reduction

Earlier this year, Alberta's Crime Reduction and Safe Communities Task Force traveled the province to hear what Albertans had to say about making our communities safer. The final report and recommendations have been submitted to the Minister of Justice. Albertans told the task force they want action on crime and its causes.

In response, the Government of Alberta has a number of new provincewide initiatives that will focus on enforcement, prevention and treatment. These initiatives will help make communities safer for all Albertans.

Spring Park school site marked

A handsome wrought iron sign now marks the site of Spring Park School, School District 3394, which educated children from that district from 1917 until 1950.

The project was spearheaded by former students Ray Hellquist, Myrna Fedorus and Sandra Cameron. They contacted Dave Laschuk of St. Paul Education Regional Division No. 1 to announce their intention of having the sign made, and the County of St. Paul No. 19 to ask if they could assist by erecting the sign.

Donations toward the project came from the school's former teachers and students. Hellquist, who has done extensive research of the records of this and many other schools in the area, provided information.

The sign was built by Northern Lights Welding of St. Paul, and was designed by an artist on their staff. County public works employees lifted the sign into place on the original school site on Friday, Nov. 2.

Since donations are still being received by the group, plans are now underway to add the names of teachers and students to the metal plate under the sign, Fedorus says.

Ideas for preventing gaps in the parade were also put forward. Those taking part in the parade have been advised that no candy is to be thrown, because of safety issues.

The need for supervision on the wagon rides was brought to the committee's attention. Volunteers are being recruited to ride on each of the three wagons to deter rowdy and unsafe behaviour.

Singer and songwriter Tiffany Dowhan will headline the stage entertainment, with Arnie Price and his always-popular Country Playboys also confirmed to date.

One big change from previous years is that shoppers will be able to start entering to win the Extravaganza prizes on the previous Monday, Nov. 26, with the draws to be made just before the fireworks on Extravaganza evening. The major prize will once again be a big-screen television, and subsidiary prizes are yet to be determined.

The committee is also hoping to find volunteers to run a series of activities for youngsters on Extravaganza evening.

Two community groups are getting involved in the event, with the F. G. Miller Grad Class taking care of the 50-50 draw and end-of-evening clean-up, while the moms and tots activity group is holding a chili sale at Servus Credit Union during the evening.

Community Check Stop coming

By Cst. Jason Barber
RCMP Elk Point

Elk Point Detachment and St. Paul Traffic Services of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and their partners at the Morning Sky Health and Wellness Centre on the Frog Lake First Nation are having their Second Annual Community Check Stop on Friday, November 16, 2007 to kick off the National Addictions Awareness Week activities in Frog Lake.

We are also very excited to have Members of the Fishing Lake Metis Settlement joining us with the Check Stop Program this year.

The RCMP Members will be checking for Impaired Drivers as the main objective of the check stop. The staff from the Health and Wellness Centre and Volunteers from the Frog Lake First Nation and Fishing Lake Metis Settlement will then be handing out information pamphlets and items from local agencies and business to the drivers as tokens of appreciation for not drinking and driving.

For more information please contact Cst. Jason Barber at the Elk Point Detachment (780) 724-3964.

Halloween at the library a huge success

By DAPHNE SCHNURER
Librarian

We had a great turn-out for our Halloween evening, handing out hot chocolate and goodies to the trick-or-treat crowd, telling a few stories and with Sherry Milholland on hand to read tea leaves for the adults.

We also had a good turnout for our open house on Oct. 30, where we demonstrated to patrons and town councillors how to order books or check their library account online. Ordering books online will work only if you do not have outstanding books.

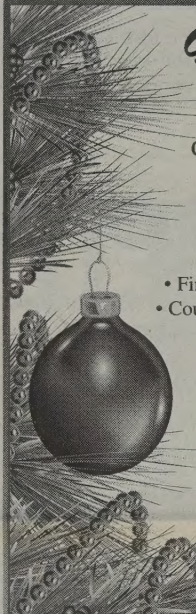

Please check your account and if you are experiencing difficulties, please give us a call. Checking your account online is quick and convenient. We also demonstrated a few online databases that are available to anyone with an Alberta Library Card. If you missed our demonstrations and are interested, just contact the library anytime and we can set something up for you.

Both of those events occurred after the completion of our library inventory. It was a big job, and we really appreciate the efforts of all the volunteers who helped with the process.

The library patrons were very patient while we were closed for a week, and we're sure they will all notice the difference that having everything in order will make.

New Christmas books are coming in daily, so make sure to stop by soon.

What you need to know about

Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD) Testing Attention Deer Hunters:

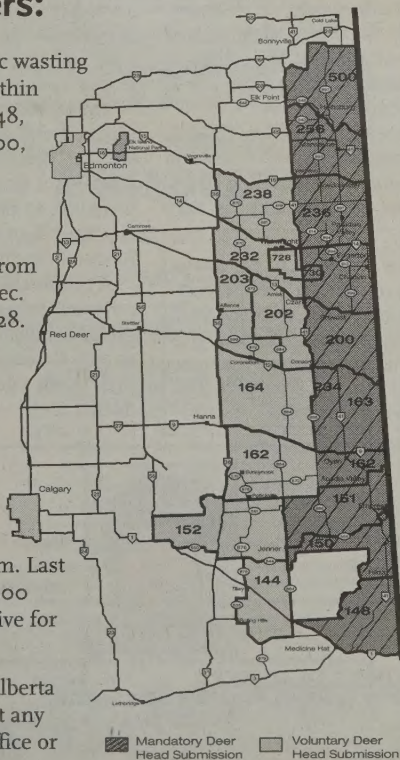

The Alberta government needs chronic wasting disease testing of all deer harvested within wildlife management units (WMUs) 148, 150, 151, 162 east of sec. rd. 886, 163, 200, 234, 236, 256, 500 and 730. It is mandatory to submit the heads of any deer harvested in these WMUs.

Voluntary submission is encouraged from adjacent WMUs 144, 152, 162 west of sec. rd. 886, 164, 202, 203, 232, 238 and 728.

Hunters will be notified of CWD test results within six weeks. Antlers and skull plate can be removed before the head is submitted.

Thanks to all hunters and landowners for your continued support and co-operation with this important disease surveillance program. Last year hunters submitted more than 2,900 deer heads. Of those, four tested positive for CWD.

Way Back When...

Robbery, Guy Fawkes, Remembrance Day

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF NOV. 13 IN...

1987

Murphy Oil announced plans for 44 new wells in 1988 when they met with the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce, with 30 thermal wells and the remaining 14 primary production. An armed robbery at the Heinsburg Lucky Dollar store left owner Rudolf Gregor, who was in his late eighties, bruised and battered, and his daughter Alice shocked that "something you would never dream of" would happen "in a place like this."

1992

Sharon and Ron Smith of Home Town Grocers were named Elk Point's Small Businesspersons of the Year by the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce, with chamber president Millie Orr making the presentation. A Peter Fidler lookalike, author and editor Bruce Haig, visited Fort George and Buckingham House to commemorate the old English custom of Guy Fawkes Day, Nov. 6, and to present a copy of his latest book, a collection of children's artwork illustrating events in Peter Fidler's diary.

1997

Grassroots input for the Lakeland Regional Health Authority was provided by Community Health Council members Carol Maas, George Sanders, Walter Saranchuk, Glenn Flanders, Levina Ewasiuk and Del Tolley at a public meeting explaining the LRHA's injury control program. With no nominees to date, Elk Point Chamber of Commerce extended the deadline for their Small Business of the Year nominations by two weeks.

2002

A new generation took up the torch of remembrance at Elk Point Elementary School, where students from tiny ECS to stalwart Grade 6s placed poppies on a wreath adorning a wall-hung cross at the school's Remembrance Day ceremonies. Elk Point Chamber of Commerce had a dream come true as Servus Credit Union offered the organization the use of an office where they could hold executive meetings and store their materials.

GUEST COLUMN

We remember them

This year, Nov. 11 fell on a Sunday. Regardless of what day Nov. 11 falls on, it was a day that we needed to "take time to remember."

Why do we remember the war dead on the 11th of November? That is an easy question to answer. The first World War stopped at 11 a.m. on the 11th of November in 1918. Those that were in the war decided that it would be right to remember their friends on the day the fighting stopped. The people who had not been in the war, but who worked in the factories, on the farms, in the offices, schools and hospitals agreed, and Remembrance Day has been held on Nov. 11 ever since that time.

Many Canadians were killed in the Second World War, the Korean War and when keeping world peace for the United Nations. We also remember them on Nov. 11.

The poppy has become a badge of honour, because when you wear a poppy, you remember all those brave Canadians who were killed. IN Canada, the poppy was officially adopted by the Great War Veterans Association in 1921 on the suggestion of a Mrs. E. Guerin, a French citizen, but there is little doubt that the impact of John McCrae's poem influenced this decision. The poem speaks of Flanders fields, but the subject is universal: the fear of the dead that they will be forgotten, that their death will have been in vain. Remembrance, as symbolized by the poppy, is our eternal answer which belies that fear.

Each person at the Remembrance Day ceremony remembers in their own way. Perhaps veterans think of friends and comrades as they were a few moments before their death. Wives remember tearful good-byes to husbands as they went to war, never to return. Fathers and mothers think of their young men and women. And their are husbands who said farewell to wives that went off to war and did not come home. This was what happened some years ago.

from the FCSS desk

Today, are we a people that need help to remember? The answer to that question is probably yes. Not all Canadians know people who have fought in the war or even know people who are currently fighting. If you were to visit Europe today, you would see part of the of the Canadian identity on over 100,000 gravestones: a simple maple leaf, telling passers-by that a Canadian who died in battle lies there. If you visited Belgium or France, you would find old people who fondly remember the young men who came from across the sea to defend them over a half-century ago.

The question can be asked, do you think freedom means more to a Dutch student than to Canadian? If you were living in 1940, you would have turned on the BBC news each day to see if England had survived the night. Europe was overrun by the Nazis, and over 100 million people sunk into slavery. The war started in 1938, but most people thought it would go away. It didn't. The fighting came after many years if desperately hoping for peace, talking about "peace in our time" and appeasement. By 1940, all hope of solving problems by peaceful means was dead. It takes two to fight. It also takes two to agree to peace.

Remembrance Day can remind you of the need to develop a sense of responsibility. It reminds you to seek changes without destroying the system. It reminds you that you inherited a rich and beautiful country. It urges you to help mankind, to promote peace and understanding, and above all, the dignity of people everywhere. This is what Remembrance Day is about.

The Canadians who died believed in a better future. You can walk though any Canadian cemetery in Europe, knowing that their faith in the future wasn't misplaced. Even though Remembrance Day is over for this year, it is time to say "thank you" to everyone who took time to remember them.

Frog Lake students honour veterans, war dead

By VICKI BROOKER
Staff Writer

Five proud new members of 'B' Company, 2645 Loyal Edmonton Regiment Vermilion Army Cadets out of Frog Lake, formed a flag-bearing honour guard for veterans and dignitaries attending Wednesday's Remembrance Day observances at Chief Napewaew Comprehensive School, Frog Lake.

Led by kilted piper Barry Roth, the procession circled an auditorium packed with students and parents before taking their places next to a rustic cross set against a background of eagles in flight, each emblazoned with the name of a veteran.

O Canada, sung in Cree, and a Cree prayer by Doris Okanee opened the proceedings.

"It is time to honour and remember all who served," director of education Lynn Stanley said as she welcomed the guests. "It is nice to see our community partner with other communities and take an active role in commemoration. This way, we become part of a legacy of remembrance and gratitude."

"It is an honour to be in the presence of these veterans," said principal Sherry O'Dell. "As a First Nations person, I feel a connection to the land. The freedom we enjoy in this land did not come free. Young men were separated from their culture and their families at a young age to fight for this freedom, and many did not come back. We are very blessed to have veterans in our community, and the best gift of love for our veterans is remembrance."

School board chairman Melvin Abraham thanked all who were involved with preparation for the ceremonies, and told the cadets, "You're doing a wonderful job." Remembrance Day is "a very special time for a lot of us. We have family who have served in different wars. My grandfather and my father served in the army, my step-dad served in Korea. My adopted son was a paratrooper in Afghanistan, the longest six months I've ever had. We have to remember those who took it upon themselves to lay down their lives for our freedom. When we see them, let's acknowledge them."

Abraham called the community "my extended family. It takes a community to raise a child, and we have to teach our children the importance of protecting our freedom. In our homeland, we fight other wars that threaten our way of living. Drugs and alcohol are a war in themselves. If we teach our children pride and integrity, it will give them weapons to fight that war."

Lloyd Seath, Vermilion, deputy district Royal Canadian Legion representative, brought with him a model of a military cemetery he has made "to remember those who did not make it back." He has placed names of war casualties from the Vermilion area on the tombstones, and said the completed project will bear close to 200 names.

Chief Napewaew students had a big part in the ceremonies, from decorating the gym with poems and artwork to laying wreaths and reading poems.

Noted fiddler and Métis of Alberta council member Homer Poitras, eldest son of veteran Lloyd Poitras, played fiddle tunes honouring peace and freedom, and set toes tapping. Many in attendance, including the senior Poitras, danced an impromptu Red River Jig.

Piper Roth, who played The Last Post, a lament and Reveille for the traditional moment of silence, concluded his part in the program with Amazing Grace. A local drum group played a Remembrance Day victory song before the morning drew to a close with the departure of the honour guard.
